

RENOWNED JOURNALIST SANDRA SULLY ANNOUNCED AS MC FOR WOMEN IN MEDIA 2023 NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Embargo: Sydney, 17 April 2023

Women in Media is thrilled to announce that Sandra Sully, one of Australia's most respected journalists and media personalities, will be a Master of Ceremonies (MC) for the highly anticipated Women in Media National Conference 2023.

Sandra Sully is a household name in Australian media, known for her extensive experience and outstanding contributions to journalism. As the Chief News Presenter for Network Ten's flagship news bulletin, Sandra has been at the forefront of delivering breaking news, engaging stories, and thought-provoking interviews to millions of Australians for over two decades. Her unwavering commitment to journalistic integrity and excellence has earned her numerous awards and accolades, making her a true trailblazer in the field.

The Women in Media National Conference, taking place in Sydney for the first time on 8-9 September 2023, is a premier event that brings together professionals from all areas of the media industry including journalism, communications, production, public relations, publishing and digital media.

Ita Buttrose AC OBE will headline an impressive speaker line-up, with panel discussions, workshops, and networking opportunities, the conference aims to foster meaningful conversations and drive positive change in the media landscape. With Sandra Sully as an MC, attendees can expect an engaging and dynamic event that will leave them inspired and empowered. This two-day event is open to all members of the media industry.

"I have supported Women in Media since its inception and am honoured and excited to be part of this year's National Conference," said Ms Sully. "As a long-time advocate for gender equality in the media industry, I am passionate about supporting and empowering women in their professional journeys.

"Recently released data by Women in Media shows we've still got a long way to go to reach equality – and I think we all acknowledge that. This year's event will be bigger than ever and that reflects the need that women working in media have to connect and support each other, building valuable networks. Men have been master networkers and we are now catching up.

"I am looking forward to engaging with fellow media professionals, facilitating important conversations, and celebrating the achievements of women in media," she added.

"We are thrilled to have Sandra Sully as our MC for the Women in Media National Conference," said Victoria Laurie, Co-Chair, Women in Media. "Sandra's extensive experience, professionalism, and passion for empowering women in media make her the perfect fit for our event. We are confident that her presence will enhance the conference and inspire our attendees."

The Women in Media National Conference is open to media professionals from all backgrounds, and early bird registration is now open. Don't miss this opportunity to be part of an empowering and insightful event led by Sandra Sully.

TICKETS ON SALE NOW

Early bird discounted tickets are available now with the full program, speakers and special guests to be revealed soon.

<https://events.humanitix.com/women-in-media-national-conference-or-sydney-or-2023>

ABOUT WOMEN IN MEDIA

Women in Media is a not-for-profit organisation that exists to help women in media excel, learn, contribute, and connect. With over 6000 members nationwide and branches in each state and territory, members work in all facets of the media including journalism, communications, production, public relations, publishing and digital media. Our initiatives aim to increase gender equality, extend leadership and economic participation opportunities for women, and build a safer, more respectful culture in Australian workplaces. For more information visit www.womeninmedia.com.au.

Media Contact: eckfactor 0438 532569