The Board is seeking to appoint a Director who has a commitment to the purpose of the organisation and has programs experience in educational, learning and professional development.

The board is comprised of nine Independent Directors.

This is a very rewarding but voluntary role.

About The Organisation

Women in Media (WiM) is a not-for-profit industry body developed by and for women in media across Australia. WiM strives to be part of the solution to addressing gender inequity in the media landscape, empowering women to secure jobs, progress in their careers and thrive at work. WiM has 6000 members nationwide with branches in each state and territory.

Selection Criteria

Ideal candidates will have the following attributes:

1. Commitment to the Mission, Vision and Objectives of Women in Media Australia
2. Education, learning and development expertise such as professional development, experience in designing, delivering and measuring impact for career development programs.
3. Experience in oversight of grant acquittals, compliance and reporting
Understanding and experience in strategic planning, commercial and operations management in a corporate or not-for-profit organisation
4. Good working knowledge of corporate governance principles and practice
5. A strategic focus - able to look beyond the current environment to identify new approaches that could deliver value in the future
6. Ability to analyse information, express views and debate robustly while maintaining a professional and collegiate manner
7. Demonstrated success in collaboration and building connections to harness the collective strengths and resources of an organisation
8. Networks that can be leveraged to bring people together to maximise opportunities for the organisation
9. Ability to commit time in preparing and participating in board and committee meetings and activities

Additional desirable qualifications and experience are:

1. Completion of an Australian Institute of Company Directors or comparable course
2. Experience as a director of a charity
3. Experience on the board of a federated organisation

Other valuable skills and experience could include reputation management, community campaigning, information technology, fundraising.

WiM encourages applications from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, people from cultural and linguistical diverse backgrounds, people with disability, LGBTIQ+ and people of all ages.
